Decade Of Advance

Budget Reflects Growth

Gardner-Webb College's Board of Trustees has approved a record budget of $3,247,950 for the next fiscal year.

In June session, trustees also approved new constitutions for both faculty and students. These documents were earlier written and approved by respective faculty and student groups. The two constitutions establish committees which will work with the administration to achieve closer cooperation among all segments of the campus organization.

The college budget shows an increase of almost $400,000 over the previous year. During the past decade, G-W's budget has climbed from $529,888 in 1961 to the $3,247,950 approved recently for the coming year. The figures represent tremendous growth in 10 years. G-W has come from a junior college with 598 students to a senior college with more than 1,500 students. Its teaching faculty now numbers 85 full-time members as compared with only 25 in 1961. Its physical plant includes 33 buildings, many constructed in the past decade and is valued at slightly less than $7,000,000.

G-W Athletics: It Was A Great Year Of 'Firsts'

Gardner-Webb College closed out its athletic year with an all sports record of 66 wins, 33 losses—and two men named to nationally selected All-American teams.

Basketball, baseball and golf were the big winners and produced the All-Americans. Football and tennis finished their seasons on the losing side, although both had moments of glory.

The college's basketball team, long a power in junior college ranks before the Bulldogs joined the four-year senior college field, had a season's record of 20 wins and four losses. This earned Coach Eddie Holbrook's men a spot in the District 26 play-offs, but they lost there.

Basketball also produced the school's first All-American when George Adams, Kings Mountain cager, was named to the National Basketball Writer's All-American team published by TV Guide. He was further honored when he was named to the NAIA first All-American team. Adams, a rising senior, will have more opportunities to gain fame next cage season.

Golf produced the second All-American in the person of Terry Florence, a Charlotte senior who placed third in the nation among a field of 110 men in the NAIA Tournament in Rockford, Ill. The golf team finished the four-day tournament fifth in the nation after posting a 16-5 record for the regular season. It was their first national senior college tourney. Coach Garland Allen's golfers got off to a bad start losing five of their first six matches, but hit their stride to close fast.

Baseball, another winner, had a season's record of 20-7. This was good enough to earn a spot in the district tournament, but Coach Jerry Bryson's men lost two straight after winning their opener in the tournament. Bryson, as Holbrook will have most of his men returning for another season.

Tennis, under Coach Jim Taylor, just missed a winning season. The netters won eight and lost nine.

Coach George Litton's gridders finished with two wins and eight losses, but the wins included a 3-0 victory over Newberry for the Bulldog's first triumph on the football field as a senior college. They also won an exciting 18-13 Homecoming game over Mars Hill.

May Will Coach

Richard May, former defense coordinator at Guilford College, was to have joined G-W's football coaching staff June 1 as defense coordinator here.

A graduate of East Tennessee State University, where he earned both bachelor's and master's degrees, he formerly was an assistant to G-W Head Football Coach George Litton at Lees-McRae Junior College. They have been friends for several years.

Honor Lists

Forty-nine of Gardner-Webb's approximately 1,500 students made the dean's list for the spring semester ending in May. The dean's list requires a grade average of 3.8 quality points or above. Nineteen of the 49 recorded perfect 4.0 quality point averages, and it's interesting to note that eight of these 4.0 students were married women attending school in addition to keeping house.

Thomas J. McGraw, vice president for academic affairs, announced the school's honor roll along with the dean's list. The honor roll, requiring an average of 3.2 at minimum, was achieved by 149 students for the spring semester.

416 Enrolled

Gardner-Webb has 416 students enrolled in the first five-week session of its summer school, which began June 7. The second session was to begin July 12.

Campus facilities are open for both men and women students, who can take up to 12 hours during the two sessions. Courses are being offered in some two dozen areas, from foreign languages to science, speech and theater arts.
